

Set up a Study Space

OK so you've been exercising your mind - now its time to do some weight training. Have you considered where are you going to study and what you will need when you start your flexible course?

Activity

If you're not sure about your study space or what might work best for you then have a look at this! You know the drill by now so check out the resources over on the left. We've added a web tool in this topic so have your internet access ready!

Technology Activity

Go to <http://www.flickr.com/> and check out some photos of study spaces search with these key words (tags) - Studyspace GetFlexible. If you want to create your own flickr account check out the workout guide. Then upload photo's of your study space and tag them to share with other flexible learners.
